

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF McDONOUGH COUNTY

Gordana Rezab

This bibliography is the seventh in a series started in 1981 and appearing in spring issues of Western Illinois Regional Studies. Thus far bibliographies of the following West-central Illinois counties have been published: Fulton, Mercer, Henderson, Calhoun, Pike, Adams, Warren, Schuyler and Brown. Entries in these bibliographies consist of separately published monographs, pamphlets, typescripts duplicated for limited private distribution, and maps. The bibliographies do not include periodical or newspaper articles, scrapbooks, manuscripts, or genealogical studies on single families. Biographies of individuals are included only if they contain a significant amount of information on the county. Entries are arranged by major categories.

Several libraries have sizeable collections of materials on McDonough County. The most comprehensive collection is housed in the Western Illinois University Libraries. This collection consists of printed and manuscript materials and photographs. It is supplemented by an extensive vertical file, and by county and municipal records housed in the IRAD Center, also located in the Libraries. Macomb Public Library, the Illinois Historical Society in the University of Illinois Library in Urbana, and the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield also contain good collections on McDonough County.

The form of entry in this bibliography closely approximates the present standard guides for cataloging in the National Union Catalog and the on-line bibliographic data bases. However, since local publications often do not contain all bibliographic elements, the form of entry may not always appear consistent.

Local publications are generally issued in small editions and distributed in small geographic areas. This frequently results in few surviving copies. If such a publication has been overlooked and has not been included in this listing, the compiler would greatly appreciate a note to that effect.
